The backpack move and move. One of the pokes open up a snakes kam out of it. The snakes went into the girls bathroom.
Then one girls went into the bathroom.
She kam running out she took the presar
what she saw. She saw lots of snakes.
Then the snakes went and bit K B and C. M. Thai had to go to the hospital. The snakes went back into the backpack. The boy that owned the backpack kam to pick it up.

Score Point: 1

This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in narrative writing skills. The writer attempts to address the prompt. Events are cited to describe what happened when the backpack started to move (snakes ran out of it, snakes went into the girls' bathroom, the snakes bit some children, one child went to the hospital, the snakes went back in the backpack, and a boy came to pick the backpack up). There is enough development for a higher score. However, serious and persistent writing errors impede communication.
